

Blog 5 Week beginning May 4th 2020.

This week I was reminded very much of the key workers that we are clapping for every week - I go out with my neighbours - yes social distancing and clap, bang saucepans and we even have music playing now and yes the NHS are heroes, they don't wear superheroes capes but face battles that are thrown at them every day.

Clapping for the NHS wearing a superhero mask!

But we have to remember there are other heroes - heroes of the road delivering everyday goods that keep this country going, supermarket workers, police officers, firefighters, prison officers, postal services, teachers and Nursery staff and many more all playing their parts during this period in our lives.

I also feel that there are two more groups of people who are heroes, parents who are battling everyday to do the best for their children and our children who are only young and are not quite sure about this virus and what it means for them so from Mrs Hulme to all Ladybird parents and children you are all absolute superheroes - thank you.

Thank you for all your photographs and messages that you are sending me - please see some of the activities that Ladybird class have been doing this week.

Writing secret messages on his homemade board - I love this idea.

Celebrating my 4th birthday.

Picking flowers to create his own florist shop.

Has a tiger escaped form the zoo?

Creating amazing animal homes and a fabulous giraffe puppet.

Maths activities:

The following activities have been created when the children were playing but for young children play is their way of learning.

Examples of early problem solving

Created a den for the pet toys using 3D shaped bricks.

Solving a tricky jigsaw puzzle

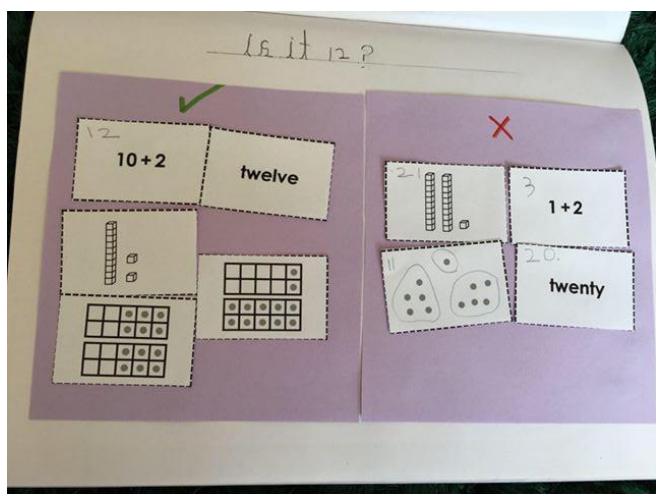

Making bracelets.

Ordering the animals by size.

Checking the size of the size of the barley.

Deepening our thinking when solving problems.

Completing really tricky maths challenges.

Sorting 3D shapes and beginning to recognise their properties.

Counting socks - lots of socks.

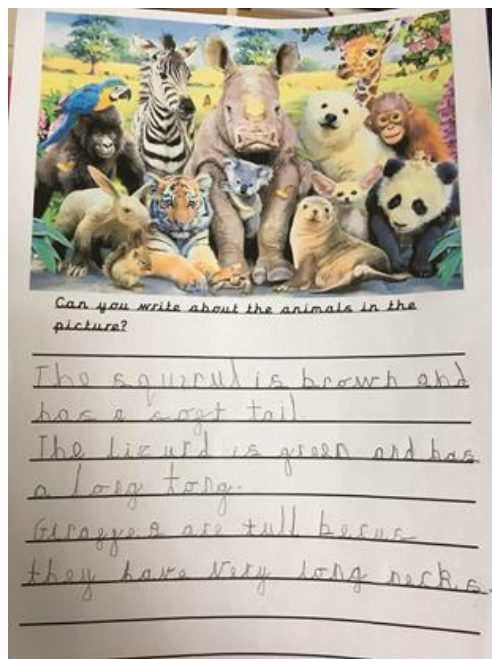

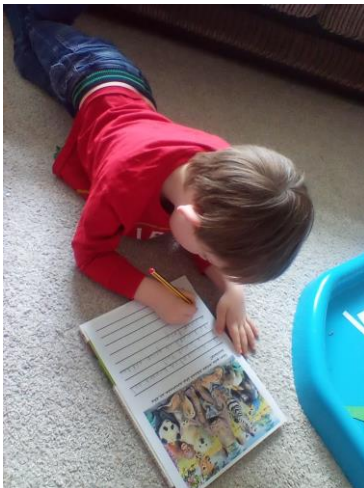

Keeping the balloon up in the air.

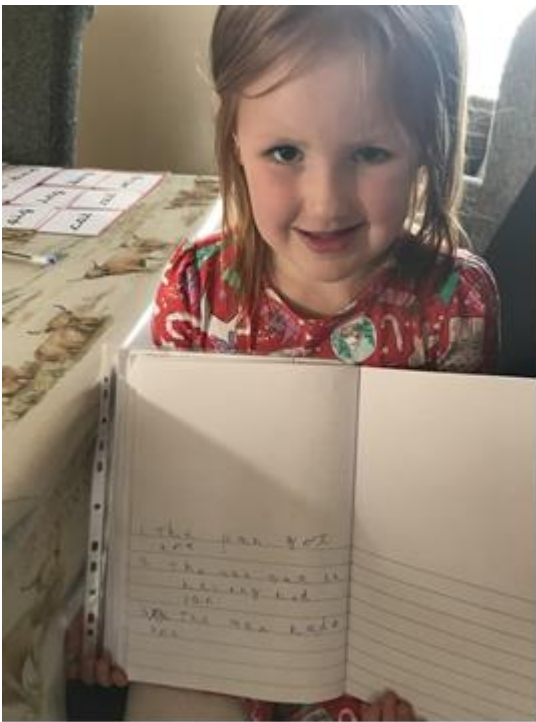

Ladybird class have been finding information about animals this week:

They have been busy writing about the different animals:

Using the computer to write key facts.

Using Letter join to practise our handwriting.

Colouring and early writing.

Amazing cutting skills and learning to finger knit.

Creating bright pink elephants

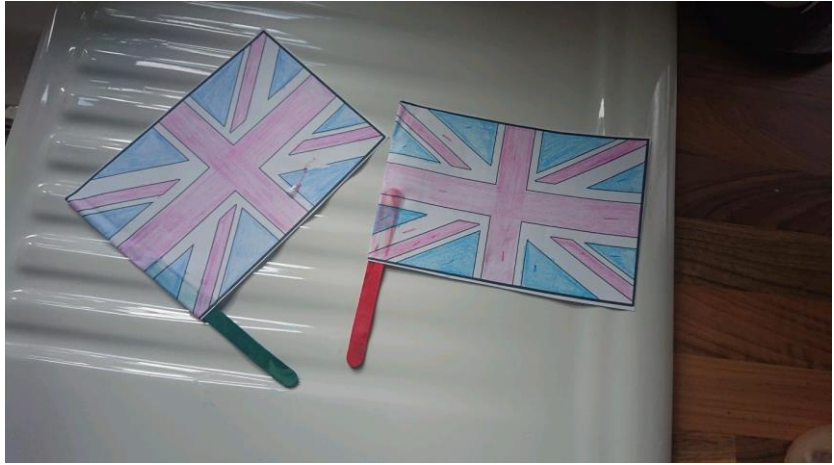

VE day activities:

A wonderful acrostic poem

Flags and bunting

Tea parties

and paper planes.

Creating family memories and enjoying the great outdoors.

Please keep safe and well.
